

REVISION PLAN

THE tending YEAR

Project Name: _____

Draft I'm working on now: (circle one) First, Revised draft # _____, Final

Hard Deadline for Final draft: _____

Hard Deadline for THIS Draft: _____

Like to Have Deadline for THIS draft: _____

Is anyone providing me with feedback during THIS draft? When do I need to get this draft to them in order to give them adequate time to comment and also give me adequate time to address their comments before I submit my revision to my evaluator?

Who will be evaluating the quality of my project?

What is their criteria for a "good job" on for THIS draft?

What is my criteria for a "good job" on for THIS draft?

Which of their/my criteria am I aiming for in this project, and why? What will that look like in THIS specific draft? Is it possible to lessen my energy output and still do well on THIS draft?

What obstacles might I run into while I'm revising? How can I plan ahead to deal with them?

How will I take care of myself throughout the revision process?

How often will I take breaks, and what will I do during my breaks?

You can read the full blog post about revision plans at www.thetendingyear.com/blog, post 2.11.